Inactivation of Escherichia coli cells attached to stainless steel by ultraviolet radiation. The effects of UV irradiation on attached and suspended cells of Escherichia coli were studied. Ultraviolet (UV) exposure of attached cells resulted in a drastic loss of viable cells. The viable cell number dropped to less than 10% within 15 sec of UV exposure. The ultraviolet light (UVC) dose required to inactivate E. coli cells attached to stainless steel was determined to be $1.8-2.2 \times 10^8$ mJ m⁻² as a function of the square of the distance from the source of radiation. This value is in a good agreement with the values calculated from the Beer-Lambert law. The inactivation of E. coli suspended in tryptic soy broth solution was negligible. The UV-inactivation of attached E. coli cells was independent of pH within the range of 4.0-9.0. Inactivation was, however, dependent on the characteristics of the inoculum. Inoculum preparation with a longer lag-phase led to a larger inoculum-to-steel cell ratio.

Q: Which approach to put bitmap data in a SQLite database? What is the best way to store bitmap data in a SQLite database? I want to create a table like this:

CREATE TABLE TEST ( ID INTEGER PRIMARY KEY IDENTITY, BITMAP_BLOB BLOB NOT NULL DEFAULT 0 );

It's important that I have a BLOB, because there will be a bitmap image associated to that data. The bitmap image can be
